Mountain Safety & Conservation

We ask visitors to respect the mountain side for the benefit of future generations and for the conservation of nature and the environment.

Enjoy your stay and use of the mountain paths, please keep to the signed foot paths to reduce erosion and to avoid disturbing wild plants and animal habitats.

Weather conditions can change quickly so be prepared with suitable warm and weather proof clothing and some essential water and energy giving food.

It is advisable, if walking the mountain paths alone, to tell a friend or relative of your expected return time, leaving a mobile phone number if possible.

*Think and enjoy
with safety in mind!*
